Even though Dr. Lamm was not our president at the beginning of our Stern College education, many of us had the opportunity to become acquainted with him through the classroom. As part of the faculty family during our sophomore year, we found him to be not only a teacher, but a very special person.

We dedicate this section of our yearbook to Dr. Lamm. As he plans a new future for Yeshiva University, we wish him much success.

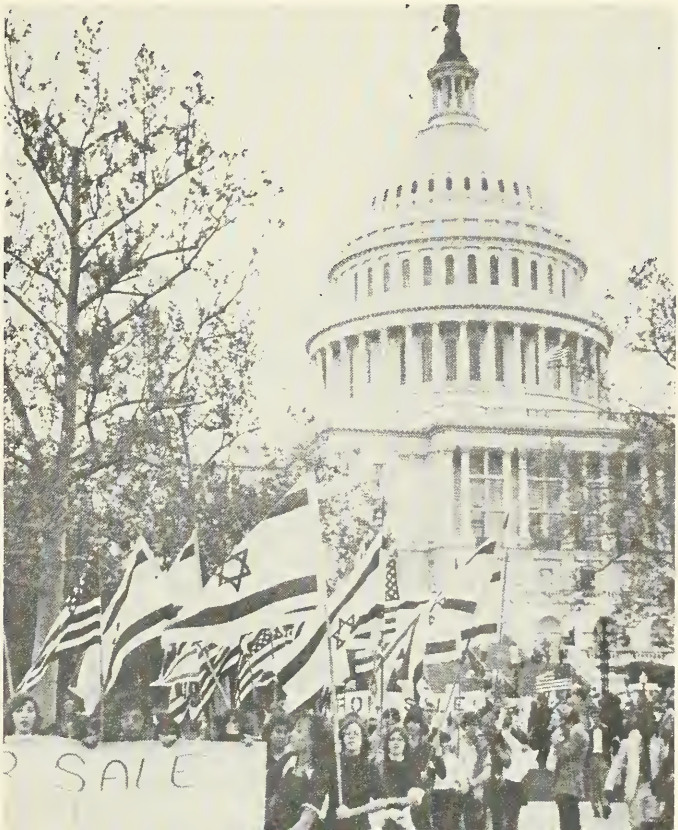
'Nu, sit down. We'll have a glass tea and we'll talk.'

MAY 17, 1978

• WASHINGTON •



Charles Dickens wrote, "It was the best of times, it was the worst of times," as an introduction to A Tale of Two Cities. Yet looking back at my past four years at Stern, I find it also to be an appropriate introduction.

For me, my experience here was a synthesis of two worlds, the world out there and the world right here.

It was an age of wisdom because we learned so much about Torah and life,
It was an age of foolishness when we would stay up until all hours just talking.
It was an epoch of belief when President Sadat went to visit Prime Minister Begin in Israel.
It was an epoch of incredulity when President Carter proposed selling jets to Saudi Arabia.
It was the season of light when finals were over,
It was the season of darkness when finals began.
It was the spring of hope when we laughed,
It was the winter of despair when we cried.

Our four year stay here seems to have been short, yet quite fulfilling. We learned much from our professors, and we thank you. From one class to another, year in and year out, our professors were always ready to help, listen and guide. We will never forget those that aided in shaping our lives.

As for my fellow graduates, I have come to know all of you during the course of putting this yearbook together. It has not always been easy for Alisa and myself, but it has finally become a reality. Congratulations are due to us all.

To my friends in the dorm, thanks for always having an extra bed for me. We laughed together, we cried together, we talked, we complained, we shared many a cigarette and heartache. Just remember, it is not over, it is just moving to my neighborhood next year.

To my parents, who deserve the world, you will just have to settle for my love and deep respect. You know that if it was not for your perseverence, I would never have come here. To Ronny and Risa, now I know why you always stayed home on Friday nights. To Danny and Marilyn, a few words but much emotion. To Debby, Joshua, Rebecca, Michelle and Sandy, remember, your aunt went to Stern.

With all due respect to Mr. Dickens, "We had everything before us" and I believe we still have everything before us!

B'HATZLACHA
Love,
Vivian

I leave Stern with mixed feelings, but the memories will stay with me forever. The lessons learned during the most important, impressionable, four years of our lives, from our triumphs to our loses, successes and failures, happiness and hearraches form the foundation on which we lay out the patterns of our future –

May G-d bless and keep you always
May your wishes all come true
May you always do for others
And let others do for you.

May you keep on being righteous
May you keep on being true
May you always know the truth
And see the light surrounding you

May you always be courageous
Stand up right and be strong
And may you stay
FOREVER YOUNG

May your hands always be busy
May your feet always be swift
May you have a strong foundation
When the winds of changes shift

May your heart always be joyful
May your song always be sung
And may you stay
FOREVER YOUNG

Believe it or not, I always thought Bob Dylan was a better writer than me, and his "Forever Young" expresses my words of advice to my fellow studenrs as best as possible. Our four years in college have ended, and now it is time to enter the real world. (Yes! Mrs. Milner will no longer bring you toilet paper when you run out) But I feel the real key to success is to have a sense of humor, (and to know how to use it) and to stay Forever Young!

I want to thank my fellow students for letting me have such a big part in the making of our yearbook. I wish everyone all the luck and happiness in your future endeavors.

I especially want to thank all those, and you know who you are, who cut classes to keep me company in the cafeteria, who sat in my room, or anywhere else, and gossiped, who laughed with, and/or at me, who made my memories of my four years at Stern what they are today.

Thanks,
Love,
Alisa

"And these are the names" of the seniors which one lovely lady in the office of student services has made her business to know. During our freshman year, we were all called, individually, to this lady's office for a personal conference. From that moment on we all knew we had a friend here.

Mrs. Esther Zuroff has always had a smile to greet us with and a shoulder for us to lean on. To this woman we dedicate this section of our yearbook, for her guidance and her love.

How can an actual person fit into the covers of a book? The book is not a continent, not a definite geographical measure, it cannot contain so huge a thing as an actual full-size person. Any person has to be scaled by eliminations to fit the book world.

Rashi maintains that all statements preceeded by the word "Vayekra" denote the language of endearment. With this in mind, we dedicate this section of our yearbook to Dean Karon Bacon.

As the third dean of Stern College who this graduating class of 1978 has seen, she is someone to whom we all feel very close. In this, her first year as dean, she has become involved in matters that the students feel are crucial for the academic enrichment of our school. It is always easier to communicate with someone who was once in our shoes as a student.

To Dean Bacon, we wish you much hatzlacha as you begin your second, of many years to come, as dean.

YESHIVA UNIVERSITY
500 WEST 185TH STREET
NEW YORK, N. Y. 10033

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

It gives me great pleasure to greet members of Stern College's class of '78 at the occasion of their graduation.

As those of you who have been my students in the classroom know, I have a great deal of respect for Stern girls -- for their intellectual acumen, their commitment to Torah, their capacity for personal growth. I hope and pray that these qualities, enhanced by your stay at Yeshiva University, will be further developed by you as the years go by.

The Jewish community especially, but the general community as well, need the special qualities that you possess. Your contribution will redound to the credit of your families and your alma mater.

I hope that you will succeed in your most cherished ambitions, both in the homes you will build and the occupations you will pursue, and that you will remember with affection and gratitude your years at Stern.

Norman Lamm
President

It is with great pleasure that I extend greetings to the 1978 graduates of Stern College for Women.

At alma mater you have enjoyed a unique opportunity for intellectual and spiritual growth. Here the modern young woman can devote herself to the complete development of her capabilities as a Jewess and as a student of the liberal arts and sciences -- searching and researching into the mysteries of the universe, acquiring a better understanding of the world in which we have been placed, achieving a greater appreciation of the lives and destinies of the peoples among whom we live.

Your constructive participation in the development of the College has strengthened it in the pursuit of these primary goals. Stern College is truly a better place for your having been here.

As you undertake various roles in the professions--and as guardians of our Torah traditions in the homes and in the community--the years spent at Stern College will prove invaluable. I extend my very best wishes for the future.

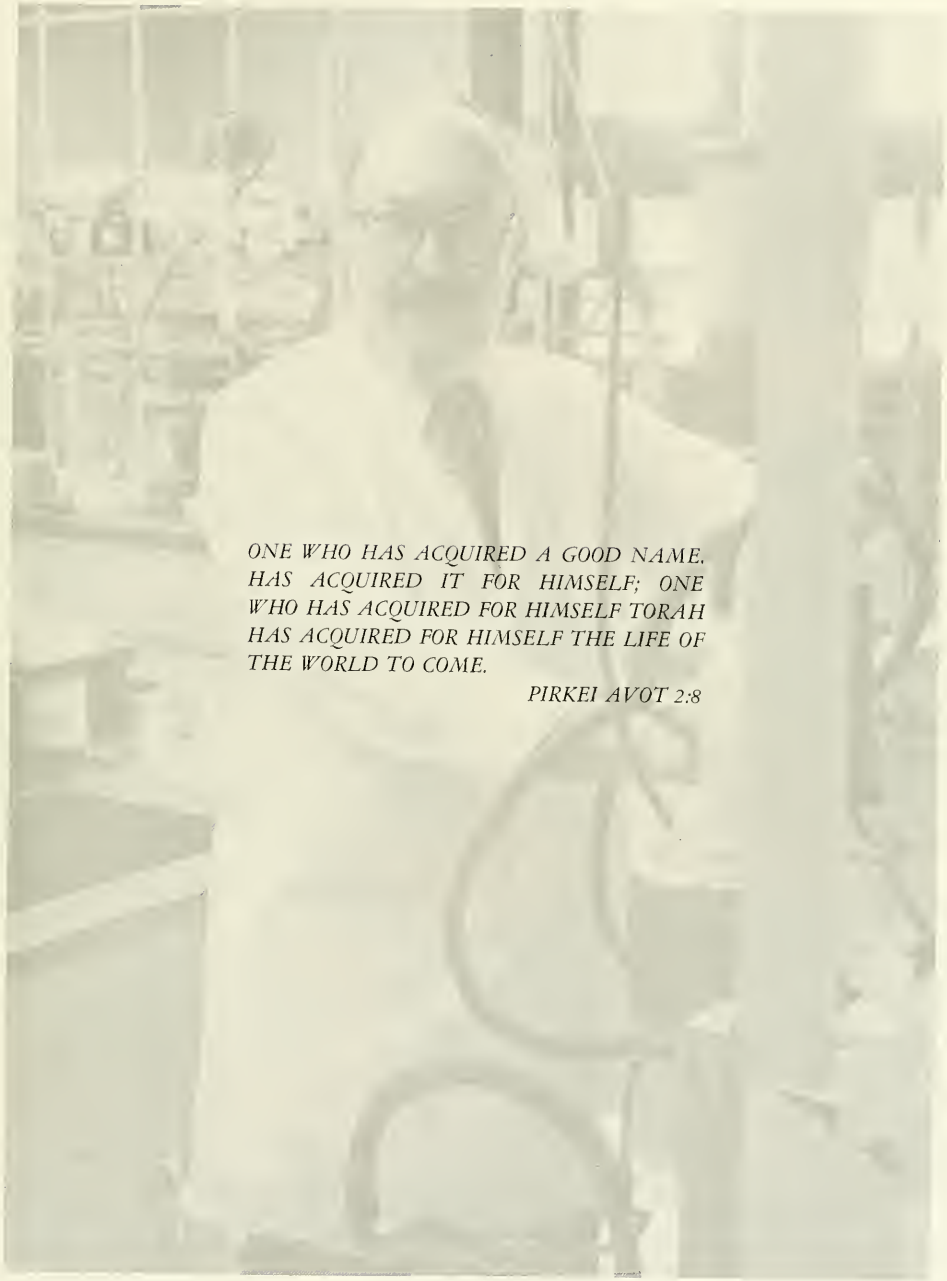
Mr. Max Stern

Since assuming the position of Dean of Stern College for Women, I have been asked by many people to compare the college I knew as a student to the Stern College of today. There are, of course, a number of differences. Neither time nor the college has stood still. But one aspect stands out most in my mind, that of the relationship of Stern College to the Yeshiva University community.

In the twenty four years since the creation of Stern College, both physical location as well as educational philosophy and goal combined to make the school in many ways autonomous from the rest of the University. These years were good ones for the college and her students, providing a perfect environment for the development of traditions and internal attachments. Each incoming class could hardly fail to feel that superimposed upon the educational process has been a strong sense of community of teachers and students, one that defines Stern College and that encourages and indeed enhances the educational experience.

Today, the University seeks to strengthen itself and each of its divisions by drawing the various branches closer together. Approaching any new venture carries with it both anxieties and anticipations and this case is no exception. I have confidence however that the strengths of Stern College, her commitment to an intensive dual program for the Jewish woman as well as the unmatched loyalty of the faculty and student body to the school, will ensure a positive future. You, the graduates of 1978, need not share only in the beginnings of this reorganizational venture. Your continued interest as alumnae in this institution and your continued show of strength in support of her development, ensure, I believe, a future of fewer anxieties and greater anticipations.

I feel very close to this class because you are my first as Dean of the College. At the same time, I carry the uncomfortable realization that I do not know all of you as personally as I would have liked. But, from those students with whom I have shared plans and frustrations and moments of laughter, I have come to know you as having great pride in being traditional Jewish women, committed to education, activism, community service and personal fulfillment. I trust that at Stern College the faculty and the school's ideals helped encourage and channel these commitments. My best wishes to you at this time of your graduation.



ONE WHO HAS ACQUIRED A GOOD NAME, HAS ACQUIRED IT FOR HIMSELF; ONE WHO HAS ACQUIRED FOR HIMSELF TORAH HAS ACQUIRED FOR HIMSELF THE LIFE OF THE WORLD TO COME.

As Moses guides Bnai Israel through the desert for 40 years, so has Rabbi Berman guided us through our 4 years of Stern. No Stern experience can be considered complete without Rabbi Berman. He was not only a teacher, but an intricate part of our Y.U. family. We shared much with him — from our own individual trials and tribulations to the celebration of his son's brit.

He has been instrumental in the changes which have taken place in Judaic Studies department. Through his drive and dedication, Judaic Studies has been greatly enriched through the past 4 years.

With admiration and respect, we dedicate this section of the yearbook to Rabbi Saul Berman, and we wish him Hatziach and Tzezhchem Li Shalom as he and his family plan next year in Israel.

The Shaped Major at Stern College

The Shaped Major is a program of study drawn to fulfill an individual student's desire to achieve an acceptable academic goal which is not met by one of the traditional majors offered at Stern College, yet is consonant with a liberal arts program. A student interested in such a Shaped Major draws up a fully articulated projected course of study, clearly stating the academic goals she would like to achieve and bearing the currence of a faculty member who agrees to serve as her sponsor. The proposal is reviewed by a faculty committee which can draw upon the opinion of other faculty to help determine whether the projected course of study is feasible, will indeed help the student achieve the goal, and does not compromise the College's commitment and philosophy. If the Shaped Major is approved, a complete and detailed allocation chart is filed with the Office of the Registrar and binds the student as well as college.

As the 1978 graduates of Stern College, we feel that there were a few things we learned that others did not. Before we depart, we would like to share some of our Stern insights with you. They are hints, tips, reminders and just plain solid advice, most of which was learned post facto.

1. When studying for exams between the months of December and February, always make sure your teachers have an alternate plan in case of snow.
2. When studying for exams while the city of New York is attempting to avoid a transit strike, always visit your friends in Brooklyn.
3. If any foreign diplomat arrives from the Middle East to New York, always prepare for a rally at the Isaiah Wall.
4. In your senior year, always advise your teachers you have an interview before cutting their class.
5. Never put term papers in faculty mail boxes, they have ways of getting misplaced and it is always your fault.
6. If you have a broiler or hot pot, make sure to also have a trunk to hide it in.
7. When decorating doors in the dorm, remember, scotch two-way stick tape works the best.
8. Never tell your teacher you are taking their course to fulfill a requirement, but that you always had a desire to learn about photosynthesis and Machiavelli.
9. Never ask Selma if the food is fresh or for extra cheese on top of your noodles.
10. Always find out which teachers are perpetually tardy and which are constantly on time.
11. "Smart" Stern girls never admit they studied for the test and they are the ones to graduate "Cum Laude".
12. Always deny you're doing anything in class except taking excellent notes.
13. Always have at least four of your roommates check out your blind date before you go downstairs to meet him.
14. When going on your interview for dorm counsellor, do not forget your favorite mitzvah.
15. Always smile and schmooze with the ladies in the registrar's office. NEVER, NEVER COMPLAIN.
16. Never admit before a quorum that you really are apathetic.
17. If you're going to the student lounge, make sure you have good directions and at least 3 spare hours.
18. Do not leave your dissected pig in the hallways of the dorm. They have ways of doing strange things to your roommates or the cleaning women.
19. Always have $5.00 in change for the candy machines the night before an exam.
20. And most important, never forget you went to Stern College for Women.

Dear Madam,

Although I am happy to inform you that I will be receiving My B.A. on June 8, 1978, I will not be receiving my M.R.S. in the foreseeable future. Hence, would you be so kind as to refund my tuition in full for the past four years. If any forms are necessary to be filled out (ie. TR7-Tuition Refund #7) please be so kind as to send it to me and my roomate because she is in the same predicament as well!

Thank you for your time & effort

Sincerely yours,
The SCW - Single Student

We dedicate this final chapter of our yearbook to our fathers and mothers for all the values which they continually instill within us and the love they continually express.

Not only to our individual fathers and mothers, but to Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Sarah, Rivkeh, Rachel and Leah, the fathers and mothers of all Jewish people. For without all of these important people, nothing we have strived or lived for could have been meaningful.

Father and mother, we thank you and we love you.
